POSITION: PIAVA URGES YOUR SUPPORT FOR SB 424

COMMENTARY: Due to the nature of services performed by a Private Investigator, they routinely come in contact with members of the public, often times in or around their private residences and/or place of business. Such circumstances require immediate access to a registration card issued by the Department of Criminal Justice Services (DCJS) that demonstrates on its face whether its bearer has been vetted and registered by DCJS to perform regulated private investigative services. The Private Investigator's Association of Virginia, Inc. (PIAVA) believes strongly that a registration card issued by DCJS to a Private Investigative registrant must include a photograph of the registrant, as well as data sufficient to validate the authorization of an individual to perform regulated activities. In PIAVA's opinion, DCJS's current practice of issuing a registration card to Private Investigators without a photo creates a potential vulnerability to not only the safety of the public, but to the private investigators themselves.

Passage of a statutory requirement for DCJS issuance of a photo registration card to Private Investigative registrants, as set forth in SB 424, will return DCJS to its prior policy and practice of issuing photo identification cards to Private Investigative registrants. In 2013, DCJS ceased issuance of a registration card containing a photo to Private Investigative registrants based upon the Department's determination that such an action required specific authorization in statute. The passage of SB 424 will provide a statutory basis for DCJS to again issue photo identification cards to its Private Investigative registrants; and will effectively resolve the safety issues that exist due to the Department's change of its past policy and practice.

Enactment of SB 424 will be cost neutral, and the bill includes a $4 surcharge per registrant to defer DCJS's upfront costs associated with the issuance of the photo identification cards.
